Bibliography Cited:If you want to be a better leader you must do more and smarter, then better. It's a simple and logical principle.. Be more focused on the goals than the actions. Don't let things go by so easily — use your best ability to stop the process of action and begin again. Do a short task that you feel you can complete the whole day and not fail. Do this often enough, and it will feel easy to follow. The rewards will come from this constant work even when you feel like there is nothing to do.. Let's not take this a step too far — the next logical step is always to create an idea of what your biggest mistake is, so you may work to eliminate that possibility.. You have to be conscious of what you are doing to make the greatest impact. You have to let go to allow your best ideas to reach the next level with the least amount of effort..
